Comparative Study of Electoral Systems Module 2: Macro Report

Country (Date of Election): Japan [11 July, 2004 (House of Councilors (Upper House Election))]

NOTE TO THE COLLABORATORS: The information provided in this report contributes to an important part of the CSES project- your efforts in providing these data are greatly appreciated! Any supplementary documents that you can provide (i.e. electoral legislation, party manifestos, electoral commission reports, media reports) are also appreciated, and will be made available with this report to the CSES community on the CSES web page.

Part I: Data Pertinent to the Election at which the Module was Administered

1. Report the number of portfolios (cabinet posts) held by each party in cabinet, prior to the most recent election. (If one party holds all cabinet posts, simply write “all”.)

3a. Were there any significant parties not represented in parliament before the election?
3b. Were there any significant parties not represented in parliament after the election?

None

3c. Were there any other non-represented parties or independent actors whom you believe to have had a significant effect on the election?

None

4a. Ideological Positions of Parties

Please indicate Parties A-F’s positions on a left-right dimension (in the expert judgment of the CSES Collaborator). If this dimension is not appropriate, please provide an explanation of the salient cleavages, and parties’ relative positions.

Historically, this dimension mostly overlaps with left-right ideological dimension. However, this dimension is more diversely positioned by parties, and Komeito which has a casting vote in the Government has leftist position as compared with ideological position.

4bb. Do you believe there would be general consensus about these placements among informed observers in your country. Yes.

5. In your view, what are the five most salient factors that affected the outcome of the election (e.g. major scandals; economic events; the presence of an independent actor; specific issues)?

2. Discontent in politics, represented by insincere response of the Prime Minister and coalitional government to the pension issue.
3. Economic performance (Especially effects on personal economy).
4. Evaluations of Party Manifestos (especially effective in Democratic Party Japan).
5. International issues (Delegation of Self Defense Force to Iraq, Kidnap issue with North Korea).

5a. Do you believe there would be general consensus about the importance of these factors among informed observers in your country?

Not very strongly. The list above is basically based on the analyses on voting behavior using Japan Election Study 3 (including CSES2 module). However, some scholars would emphasize international conflicts and Japan’s position toward these, others economy, and still others moral issues listed 2nd above (When asked about “the most important issue” (CSES2 question 5), the most prominent one was pension issue (but not necessarily the strongest impact factor on the votes).
6. Electoral Alliances:

Sometimes, electoral alliances are made at the constituency level as, for example, in Finland. Documenting who is allied with whom, and how, in each constituency is a large task and we do not expect you to do more than make some general reference to the existence of constituency-level alliances. Sometimes, electoral alliances are made at the national level — these are the alliances that we would like you will identify. Information is sought on who is allied with whom and on the nature of the electoral alliance.

a) Were electoral alliances permitted during the election campaign?
No ....... Yes ....x.... - and the following alliances were formed:
The answer is YES because in theory electoral alliances can be formed legally. However, in practice the question is vague. There was some informal agreement which enables the parties concerned to cooperate in the Election in question; In the formal sense, LDP and Komeito did not form an alliance but as a form of agreement they did. In running the Cabinet, this alliance is important and substantial, and in the 2004 election, the alliance was also partially effective in terms of strategic allocation of candidates and votes; LDP and Komeito coordinate when they decide where to place their candidates, although they do compete each other in some of the districts.

Part II: Data on Electoral Institutions

If possible, please supplement this section with copies of the electoral law, voters' handbooks, electoral commission reports, and/or any other relevant materials.

A. QUESTIONS ABOUT ELECTORAL DISTRICTS.

Definitions: An electoral district is defined as a geographic area within which votes are counted and seats allocated. If a district cannot be partitioned into smaller districts within which votes are counted and seats allocated, it is called primary. If it can be partitioned into primary districts, and during the counting process there is some transfer of votes and/or seats from the primary districts to the larger district, then the larger district is called secondary. If a district can be partitioned into secondary districts (again with some transfer of votes and/or seats), it is called tertiary.

In some electoral systems, there are electoral districts that are geographically nested but not otherwise related for purposes of seat allocation. In Lithuania, for example, there are 71 single-member districts that operate under a majority runoff system, and also a single nationwide district that operates under proportional representation (the largest remainders method with the Hare quota). Neither votes nor seats from the single-member districts transfer to the nationwide district, however. The two processes are entirely independent (with voters having one vote in each district). In this case, the nationwide district, although it contains the 71 single-member districts, is not considered to be secondary. It is primary. One might say that there are two segments to the electoral system in such cases.

1. How many segments (as just defined) are there in the electoral system?
   1 segment ..........
   2 segments ....x..... (Upper House)
   more than 2 ..........

Please answer the following questions (questions 2 through 11) for each segment of each directly elected house of the legislature:

2. How many primary electoral districts are there? 47 prefectual electoral districts and 1 national proportional representation constituency

3. For each primary electoral district, how many members are elected from each district? ................. (If district variation exists, answer 3a)
3a. If districts elect varying number of members, please list the districts, indicating the number of members elected from that district. (Attach separate sheets, as required).

Proportional representatives 48

4. How many secondary electoral districts are there? 0

5. How many tertiary electoral districts are there? 0
B. QUESTIONS ABOUT VOTING.

6. Exactly how are votes cast by voters? Single candidate for the prefectural electoral district vote and party list or single candidate for proportional representation vote
   (Number of vote for a single candidate is also counted as party vote on which party he/she is listed. Candidates are elected by the number of votes they received. Seats are allocated for each party by the total number of votes for each party including candidate votes.)

6a. How many votes do they or can they cast? One for the prefectural electoral district vote and one for the proportional representation vote

6b. Do they vote for candidates, for lists, or for both? (Explain) Until 2000, for the proportional representation vote voters could only vote on a party list. In 2000 the Diet passed a bill allowing voters to vote either for a single candidate or a party of their choice. A vote for an individual candidate is taken to mean a vote for the party to which the candidate belongs.

7. Are the votes transferable? NO

8. If more than one vote can be cast, can they be cumulated? N/A

9. Are there any other features of voting that should be noted? An upper house term is 6 years. Every three years, half of the seats come up for reelection. Also in 2000, the number of seats in the upper house was cut back from 252 to 242.

C. QUESTIONS ABOUT CONVERTING VOTES INTO SEATS.

10) Exactly how are votes converted into seats?

The votes for the prefectural districts determine winners based on the plurality rule. The votes for the PR component are translated into seats based on parties. For the PR districts, voters are given a choice between parties and candidates. Specifically, voters can choose to vote for a party or specify a candidate’s name instead. If a party is specified, it is simply counted for the party. If a candidate’s name is specified, the vote is counted toward the party that is associated with the candidate. These votes for candidates also determine the ranking of candidates within each party. The seat assignments based on the PR component are then in proportion with total party votes and seats must be filled according to the candidate ranking.

10a) Are there legally mandated thresholds that a party must exceed before it is eligible to receive seats? NO

If so, what is the threshold?
10b) What electoral formula or formulas are used? D’Hondt for the proportional representation portion, whereas the plurality rule is used for the prefectural district component.

11) If there are lists, are they closed, open, or flexible? Please code below
   a) closed?
   b) flexible, but in practice virtually closed?
   c) flexible?
   d) flexible, but in practice virtually open? or
   e) open?

Definitions: A list is closed if the seats that are awarded to that list are always occupied by the candidates in order of their appearance on the list (i.e., if the list gets x seats then necessarily the top x names on the list get the seats). A list is open if the question of which candidates on the list get the seats that are awarded to the list is determined solely by the votes that each candidate receives. A list is flexible if parties place their candidates in the order they would like to see them elected, but voters can, with varying degrees of ease, change this order through votes they cast for individual candidates.

Please repeat questions 2 through 11 of this section for each segment of each directly elected house of the legislature.

D. QUESTIONS ABOUT THE POSSIBILITIES OF ELECTORAL ALLIANCE.

Definitions: A joint list refers to one on which candidates of different parties run together. Apparentement refers to a legal agreement between two or more lists to pool their votes for the purposes of an initial seat allocation, with seats initially allocated to the alliance then reallocated to the lists in the alliance.

12) What are the possibilities of alliance in the system? No legal rule for a joint list by different parties.

12a. Can parties run joint lists? ..........Yes ..........x ......No

12b. Is there apparentement? or linking of lists? ..........Yes ..........x ......No

12c. Can candidates run with the endorsement of more than one party? ......x ......Yes ..........x ......No

This is Yes and No. Because, no legal rule at the district level. It’s legally possible at the district elections (with no actual case), but if a candidate win in such case, s/he will have to choose Kaiha (party in Japanese parliament) that s/he belong to or to become independent in the parliament. At the PR seats, it’s impossible, because of no joint list.

12d. Do parties withdraw their lists or candidates in some constituencies, urging their supporters there to vote for an ally's list or candidate? ......x ......Yes ..........x ......No

12e. Other? ........................................................................................................

13. Are joint lists possible? Yes
13a. If joint lists are possible, are they subject to different regulations than single-party lists? For example, higher thresholds, different numbers of candidates that may appear on the list, etc.

14. If apparentement is possible, what lists can participate in such agreements:
   - lists of the same party in the same constituency? ..........
   - lists of the same party from different constituencies? ..........
   - lists of different parties in the same constituency? ..........

15. If candidates can run with the endorsement of more than one party, is this reflected on the ballot?
   ..........x.....No.
   ............ No party endorsements are indicated on the ballot paper
   ............ Yes, candidate's name appears once, together with the names of all supporting parties
   ............ Yes, candidate's name appears as many times as there are different parties endorsing him or her, each time with the name of the endorsing party
   ............ Yes, other (please explain)
Part III: Data on Regime Type

Below are various questions about the type of regime—presidential, parliamentary, semi-presidential—in your country. There are two potential problems with these questions that should be noted at the outset. First, in some countries there may be a discrepancy between the dejure (or legal) situation and the de facto (or practical)situation. For example, in Great Britain the Queen still possesses a legal right to veto legislation, but this right has not been exercised since 1707. In the case of such obviously obsolete powers, please answer according to the de facto situation. Otherwise, describe the dejure situation. A second potential problem is that the questions may not be phrased optimally for the situation in your particular country. In such cases, please answer as best you can, providing some indication of the difficulties as you see them.

A. QUESTIONS REGARDING THE HEAD OF STATE.

Definitions: The Head of State is typically the highest ranking official in the executive branch of government. Often, this position is held by a president or a monarch, and may be more ceremonial than effective. The Head of Government is usually the highest ranking official in the legislative branch of government. In some systems, this may be someone other than the Head of State (i.e. the prime minister in the Westminster systems), while in other cases, the roles of the Head of State and Head of Government are combined (i.e. in the United States, the president serves as both the Head of State and the Head of Government).

1. Who is the Head of State?
   ........ President
   ...x... Monarch
   .......... Prime Minister serves as ceremonial head of state
   .......... Other (please specify) ............................................................

2. How is the head of state selected?
   ......... Direct election
   ......... Indirect election
   ...x... Birthright
   ......... Divine right
   ......... Other (Explain) ..................................

2a. If by direct election, by what process?  N/A ......... Plurality election
   ......... Run-off or two-ballot system
   ......... Other (Explain) ..................................

If by run-off system, how are the candidates selected for the final round? N/A
   ......... The .......... (#) candidates with the highest vote totals advance to the second round
   ......... Any candidate with at least ..........% of the popular vote advances to the second round
2b. If by indirect election, by what process? N/A
       .......... Electoral college
       .......... Selection by the legislature
       .......... Other (Explain) ..............................

If by electoral college, how are electors chosen? N/A

Does the electoral college deliberate? ........ Yes ....... No

What is the voting procedure used by the electoral college?   N/A

If by the legislature, by which chamber(s) of the legislature? N/A
What is the voting procedure used? N/A

3. Does the Head of State have the following powers? [Check all that apply.]

3a. Introduce legislation? ........Yes …x...No

3b. Require expedited action on specific legislation? (i.e., set a deadline by which the legislature is required to act on the bill)? ........Yes ...x..No

Definitions: A Head of State possesses a partial veto when he or she can target specific clauses of a piece of legislation for veto, while promulgating the rest. In the U.S., such vetoes are sometimes called hue item vetoes. A Head of State possesses a package veto when he or she can veto the entire piece of legislation submitted by the legislature, but cannot veto some parts and accept others.

3c. Package veto? ....x... No .......Yes, and the requirement to override the veto is

3d. Partial veto? ....x... No .......Yes, and the requirement to override the veto is

3e. Issue decrees with the power of law? .......Yes ....x...No

3f. Emergency powers? ....... Yes ....x.. No

3g. Negotiate treaties and international agreements? ....x.. No .......Yes, provided the following additional requirements are met:
3h. Commander of the armed forces? .......Yes ....x..No

3j. Initiate referenda or plebiscites? .......Yes ....x..No

3k. Refer legislation to the judicial branch for review of constitutionality? .......Yes ....x..No

3m. Convene special legislative sessions? .......Yes ....x...No

B. QUESTIONS ABOUT THE HEAD OF GOVERNMENT.

Definitions: In some countries, the Head of Government is directly elected, in elections that may or may not occur concurrently with legislative elections. In these cases, the Head of Government is said to be elected independently of the legislature. In others, the Head of Government is the leader of the governing party or governing coalition in the legislature, and so, the selection of the Head of Government depends upon the distribution of seats in the legislature. In these cases, the Head of Government is not elected independently of the legislature.

1. Is the Head of Government elected independently of the legislature? ....... Yes ....x... No

1a. Is the Head of Government also the Head of State? ....... Yes ....x... No

1b. If the Head of Government is not elected independently of the legislature, how is the Head of Government selected?

........ Appointed by the head of state alone
........ x... Appointed by the legislature alone
........ Nominated by the head of state, and approved by the legislature
........ Nominated by the legislature, and approved by the head of state
........ Other (Explain):

2. What authorities does the Head of Government have over the composition of the cabinet? [Check all that apply.]

....x...Nominates ministers and assigns portfolios alone
........ Nominates ministers for approval by the president
........ Reviews and approves ministerial nominations made by the president
....x... Dismisses ministers and reassigns portfolios at own discretion
........ Other (Explain):

3. What authorities does the Head of Government have over the policy making process? [Check all that apply.]

....x... Chairs cabinet meetings
........ Determines schedule of issues to be considered by the legislature
........ Determines which alternatives will be voted on by the legislature, and in which order
........ Refers legislative proposals to party or legislative committees
C. QUESTIONS REGARDING THE CABINET

1. By what method(s) can the cabinet be dismissed? [Check all that apply.]

......... By the head of state acting alone
......... By the prime minister acting alone
......... By majority vote of the legislature where a majority of all legislators is required
......... By majority vote of the legislature where a majority of those legislators voting is required
......... By some combination of the above, acting in concert (Explain)
......... Other (Explain):

D. QUESTIONS REGARDING THE LEGISLATURE

1. Can the legislature be dissolved prior to regularly scheduled elections? .......No ....x.....Yes,

......... By the head of state acting alone
......... By the prime minister acting alone
......... By majority vote of the legislature
......... By some combination of the above, acting in concert (Explain):
......... Other (Explain):

2. If the legislature can be dissolved prior to regularly scheduled elections, are there restrictions on when and how the legislature can be dissolved? [Check all that apply.]

.........On the timing of dissolution (e.g. not within one year after a legislative election) (Explain)

.........As a response to action/inaction by the legislature (e.g. only when the legislature has censured the cabinet; only if the legislature fails to pass the budget) (Explain)

......... Other (Explain): Upper house cannot be dissolved. Lower house may be dissolved by Prime Minister at will.

3. Is there a second chamber of the legislature? ....... No ....x.. Yes, it is:

......... directly elected

......... indirectly elected through the following process
