Data on Electoral Institutions

If possible, please supplement this section with copies of the electoral law, voters' handbooks, electoral commission reports, and/or any other relevant materials.

Not available in English

Questions 15a through 21d must be repeated for each electoral tier (segment) of each directly elected house of the legislature.

Not applicable, the Icelandic parliament is unicameral

Questions about Voting

16a. How many votes do voters cast or can cast? In systems where voters rank order the candidates, if there are 10 candidates (for example), the response to this question should be 10. 1 vote per voter. But voter can strike out candidate names and change the ranking order of candidates on the list they voted for.

16b. Do they vote for candidates (not party lists) or party lists? (Note: Collaborators may select multiple answers, if appropriate.)

16c. How many rounds of voting are there?

1 round

16d. If there are lists, are they closed, open, flexible, or is there party bloc voting?

- Closed (order of candidates elected is determined by the party and voters are unable to express preference for a particular candidate)
- Open (voters can indicate their preferred party and their favored candidate within that party)
- Flexible (voters can allocate votes to candidates either within a single party list or across different party lists as they see fit)

17. Are the votes transferable?

(Definition: In systems with preferential voting, a voter can express a list of preferences. E.g., votes can be cast by putting a '1' in the column next to the voter's preferred candidate, a '2' beside their second favorite candidate and so on. Votes are counted according to the first preferences and any candidates who have achieved the predetermined quota are elected. To decide which of the remaining candidates are elected the votes are transferred from candidates who have more than the necessary number to achieve the quota and from the candidate with the least number of votes. An example of this is the election in Ireland in 2002.)

Questions about Converting Votes into Seats

21a. Are there legally mandated thresholds that a party must exceed before it is eligible to receive seats?

- Yes
 No

21b. If YES in Question 21a, what is the threshold?

5 % nationally in order to obtain compensatory seats. There is no formal threshold in individual constituencies.

All 63 members of the parliament are elected in one election. 54 MPs are elected from party lists in six multi-member constituencies with 8-10 seat each using d'Hondt formula. Nine seats are compensatory (two seats in three constituencies, one seat in three constituencies). The compensatory seats are allocated by d'Hondt to parties that have obtained at least 5% of valid votes nationally – see table 1 for clarification.

Table 1

	No. of constituency members	No. of compensatory members	Total
Reykjavik North	9	2	11
Reykjavik South	9	2	11
South West	10	2	12
North West	8	1	9
North East	9	1	10
South	9	1	10
Total	54	9	63
